Vent-A-Hood Sets Record Sales for June

RICHARDSON, Texas – (July __, 2006) – Vent-A-Hood, the company that created the modern residential range hood, announced record sales for the month of June to end one the company's best quarters in history.

"We've had a tremendous year, and every month continues to exceed our goals," said Blake Woodall, director of sales for Vent-A-Hood.

Woodall attributes the growing demand for the company's luxury range hoods to a strong remodeling market across America and Canada, where homeowners are investing in upgrades and house appreciations continue to rise.

"Our customers are splurging on appliances to get the best for their kitchens and the overall value of their homes," Woodall said. "Our manufacturing plant hasn't slowed down all summer."

About Vent-A-Hood:

Founded in 1933, Vent-A-Hood, based in Richardson, Texas, is the oldest manufacturer of residential range hoods in America.
